Bertha Kreinhop, Mel Calvert : Bertha's Battle: A lesson in faith and survival before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Bertha's Battle: A lesson in faith and survival:

The inspiratioinal story of one woman's successful struggle with one diverse set-back after another, not only with potentially fatal disease but also personal crises that befell her. Told in a straight-forward manner yet brightened with wit and humor. It's a page-turner!

About the Author Bertha Kreinhop Bertha was born in Hamburg, Indiana on March 26, 1932. Coming from solid German stock, she was raised on a farm along with her brother and two sisters, one of them her twin. Dorothy. A strong Roman Catholic background shaped her life and is the main reason she firmly believes that she is still alive, today. Straightforward, and witty with a great sense of humor, she resides in Batesville, Indiana in the home she shared for so many years with her beloved late husband and World War II hero, Earl Kreinhop. Mel Calvert Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, December 18, 1932 of Scotch-Irish descent, Mel spent the first four years of his schooling in the small Whitewater Township - First Grade through Senior High School - near New Trenton, Indiana. He is highly visible on Google where his life as an entertainer and world traveler is detailed. Mel, with his wife of forty years, Sunny, lives in Batesville, Indiana where Mel serves as Chairman of the Board of a Non-profit Charity and does his writing and Sunny serves as Director of Music and Liturgy for St. Louis Catholic Church.
