I love the idea of getting information about a different book each day (fiction, non-fiction, art, etc.). I've read many of the ones suggested over the years. Some are great. Some I wonder if the author or publisher is friends with the calendar editor. Nevertheless, if you relish the idea of spending big chunks of time browsing book stores and libraries, you owe it to yourself to check it out. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Nice! By Customer Got this as a Christmas present for my book-loving wife, and she loves it. She has already purchased one of the books profiled in the calendar, she loves the book, and we are only in the second month of the year. Great for the book lover in your life :) 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A Great Gift for Book Lovers! By Jeanine Birckbichler I love this calendar! Every December I make sure to buy one and I also give one to a friend or two. Each page has a suggestion of a book to read. My only problem is that I find so many interesting books that I want to read and I don't have enough time to read them all! Book Lover's 2012 Calendar (Page a Day Calendar)

Every day, Book Lover's offers a new recommendation for a page-turning book. All the Living, C. E. Morgan's lyrical debut novel exploring love and bereavement. The best thriller you've never heard of: Mark Miller's The Savage Garden, set in a mysterious Tuscan garden. And Vanished Smile, R. A. Scotti's rollicking true story of the theft of the Mona Lisa. Plus Mark Booth's entertaining ride through the lighter side of world history and Patricia T. O'Connor and Stewart Kellerman's bold and irreverent Origins of the Specious: Myths and Misconceptions of the English Language.
